Designer Notes

The new L&OD website was designed using UCSF's Drupal Site Builder, is compliant with all UCSF template and identity standards, and follows responsive design requirements needed to maintain the integrity of the page design when resizing for mobile devices.

This website is 508 compliant, and meets WCAG 2.0 standards as required by law as a public institution.

Content was created referencing the existing L&OD website <https://learning.ucsf.edu>, and reorganized using the principles of Information Architecture (IA) and User Experience (UX) best practices to support usability and navigation.

Information architecture (IA) focuses on organizing, structuring, and labeling content in an effective and sustainable way. The goal is to help users find information and complete tasks.

Additional content and design work is needed where noted:

< - PLACE HOLDER - Pending Revised and Edited Content - >

For some web pages in this prototype, I have manually coded or customized inline CSS to override design limitations of the UCSF Drupal Site Builder template. All custom inline CSS styles do maintain UCSF branding and accessibility standards, and were created specifically to ensure usability in Responsive Design.

This document notes where custom inline CSS styles are used, and provides the HTML/CSS code for reference in order to maintain design integrity and consistency.

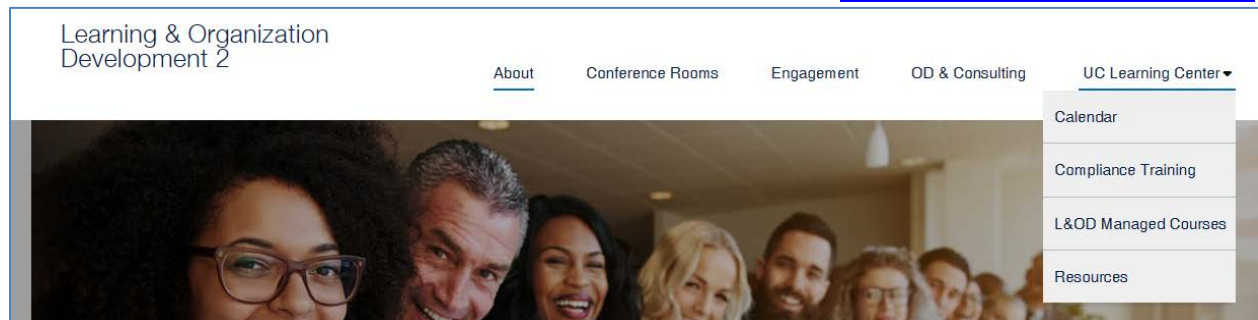

Recommendations

- ▶ Throughout this document, I have included notes with recommendations for best practices of Information Architecture (IA), and User Experience (UX) and Responsive Design to ensure usability when managing L&OD content.
- ▶ Specific attention was given in selecting and sizing images, fonts, and the layout of each web page to adhere to Responsive Design requirements and accessibility standards.

Menu

<https://devlearning.ucsf.edu/admin/structure/menu/manage/main-menu/list?destination=node/11>

The screenshot displays the Drupal administration interface for the 'Main menu'. The breadcrumb trail is 'Home > Administration > Structure > Menus > List links'. The page title is 'Main menu', with 'List links' and 'Edit menu' buttons. An 'Add link' button is also present. A table lists the menu items, each with a 'Menu link', an 'Enabled' checkbox, and 'Operations' (edit, delete). The 'Show row weights' link is visible. At the bottom, there is a 'Save configuration' button.

Menu link	Enabled	Operations
+ Home (disabled)	<input type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ About	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ Conference Rooms	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ Engagement	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ OD & Consulting	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ UC Learning Center	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ Calendar	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ Training Calendar (menu position rule)	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit
+ Compliance Training	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ L&OD Managed Courses	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ Resources	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ People (disabled)	<input type="checkbox"/>	edit delete
+ People (menu position rule)	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	edit

Recommendations

- ▶ UX best practices recommend that menus and submenus be limited to 1-2 words, and listed in alphabetical order.
- ▶ Direction was given to me by Nancy to use the UC Learning Center page as the “gateway” to all L&OD training, and create a submenu to L&OD content.
 - ▶ From a usability perspective, some submenus may be overlooked by users – particularly using mobile devices.
 - ▶ Because of usability and accessibility issues with important content found on the submenus listed under the UC Learning Center, I have also designed special sections on the UC Learning Center web page which link to Compliance Training, L&OD Managed Courses, and the Resources web pages.
 - ▶ This rationale is detailed in the UC Learning Center section of this document.

About (Home page)

<https://devlearning.ucsf.edu/about>

Tech Notes

1. Home Page Slider

- a. Welcome image designed in Photoshop/Illustrator w/text: 1280 x 500 px

2. Add Block: Starting Point – Local Events (Training Calendar)

< - PLACE HOLDER - Pending Revised and Edited Content - >

Pillars (TBD)

Add Text – 3 Column layout – 33% - 33% - 33%

- Add inline CSS to correspondence with UCSF pillars document colors.
- Use UCSF Digital Color Palette
 - SAMPLE inline CSS:
``

Icons

- Created in Illustrator
 - PNG (transparent)
 - width 100 px
- To ensure responsive design:
 - Manually add code to : `style="width:auto; height:auto; float:left"`
 - Remove code: `width="100"` – (which is automatically inserted by Drupal and is not responsive design)

Recommendations

- ▶ From a usability standpoint, I do not recommend Splash pages or Carousels:
 - Splash Pages: Pros and Cons
 - Don't Use Automatic Image Sliders or Carousels
 - If you do want to use carousels, feature limited images and topics in Homepage Slider.
 - Keep slider current with (3-5) new featured events/information.
 - Users will not view more than 3-5 featured photos.
- ▶ More information is needed to “map” and link L&OD content if you wish to refer to UCSF pillars.

- Manually add code to : style="width:auto; height:auto; float:left"
- Remove code: width="100" – (which is automatically inserted by Drupal and is not responsive design)

Recommendations

- ▶ Based on discussions with Nancy, I have nested the Calendar, Compliance Training, L&OD Managed Courses, and L&OD Resources under the UC Learning Center menu. However, to ensure this information is not lost in stacking menus, I have also built a second section on the UC Learning Center page which links those recourses as well.

- ▶ If the UC Learning Center page is to be the “gateway” to all L&OD courses, it is important to adhere to best practices of IA and UX and not clutter the page with too much content.
 - ▶ To assist with usability and navigation, I have created clean constant icons to visually organize and present links to content which appears in the UC Learning Center submenus.

Available CEU and Certification eCourses

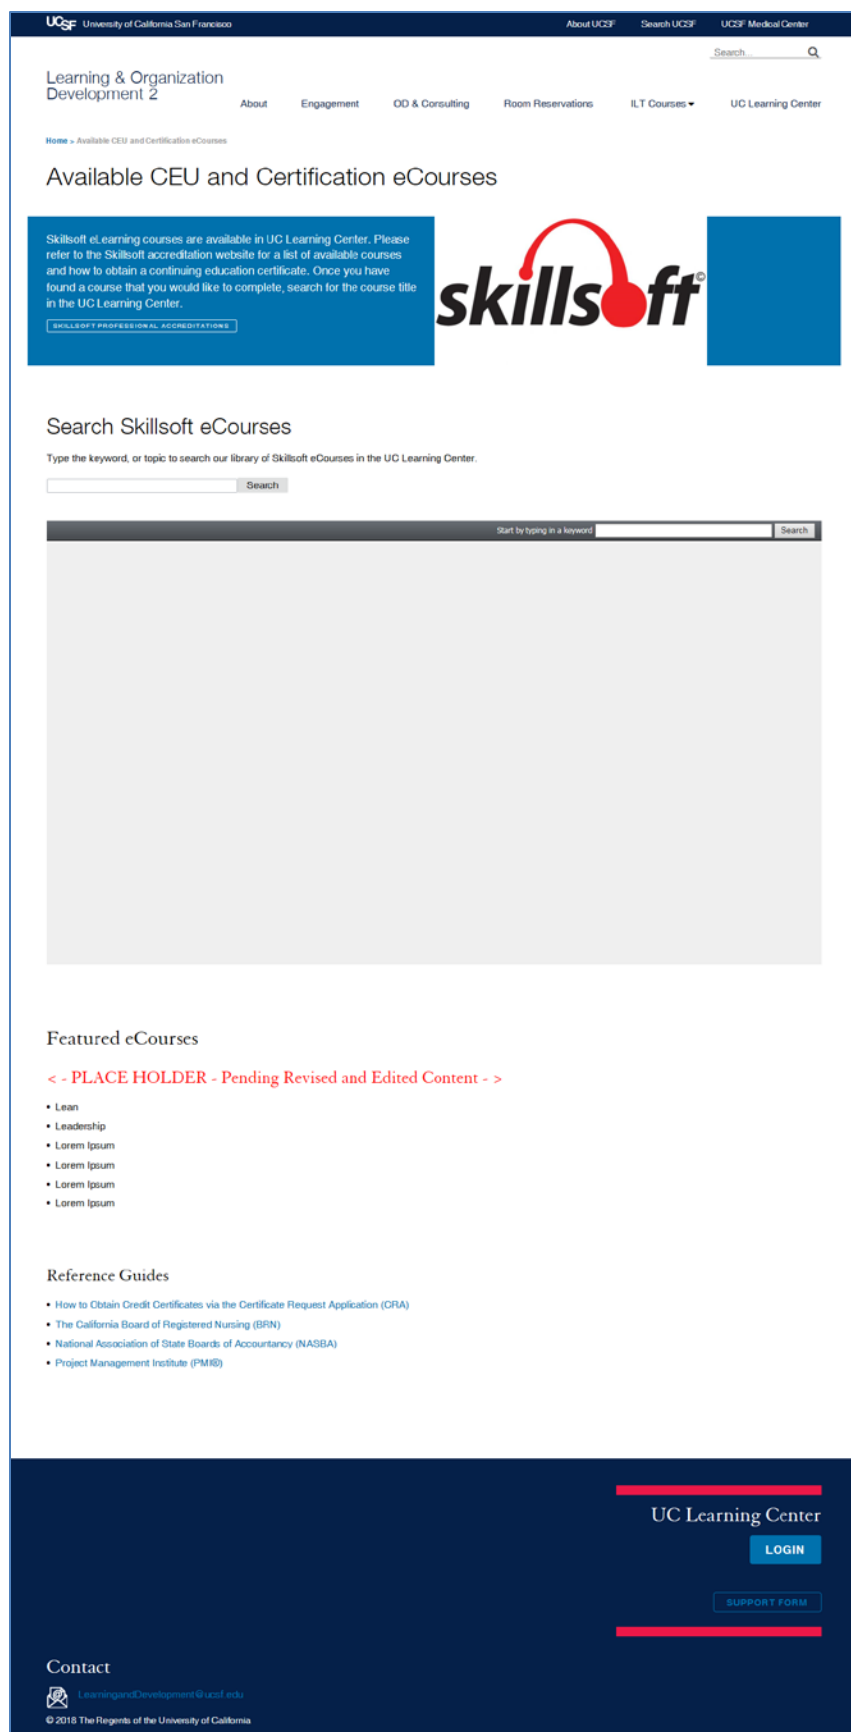

<https://devlearning.ucsf.edu/available-ceu-and-certification-ecourses>

Recommendations

- ▶ The current L&OD website includes iframes listing dozens of Skillsoft eCourses in accordion scripts which is not responsive design, and difficult to navigate.
- ▶ Because Skillsoft Accreditation courses are constantly being updated and maintained in an Excel database available through their site, it is not efficient to maintain and present all of these courses on a website.
- ▶ The volume of data available through Skillsoft makes presenting this type of information on a website too time intensive and inefficient to maintain. From a usability perspective, there are too many courses listed, making it very difficult for users to navigate.
- ▶ I also researched other UC's websites, and did not find any other UC Learning Centers that present Skillsoft certification courses as currently presented on the existing L&OD website.
- ▶ Should you want to "feature" a few Skillsoft courses (less than 10) on the website, i.e. LEAN, Leadership, etc., they could be curated in the appropriate section. You can also consider the new "Manage Library" function through the LMS and provide a link to that list.
- ▶ I have designed a web page which links to the Skillsoft Accreditations Programs, which is similar to the UC Davis website where users can locate the through Skillsoft's Excel database.
- ▶ I have also included Desmond's existing code which links to his Skillsoft database that allows users to Search our existing library. This database is easily maintained, and part of Desmond's process in uploading Skillsoft eCourses to the LMS.

NOTE: Detailed attention was paid to designing and developing the L&OD Course Catalog which links to each Course Description and Training Calendar.

Online Certificate Programs

- Pending full redesign of three certificate program landing pages

Recommendations

- ▶ All L&OD Managed courses are presented as an alpha list as best practice to allow users to easily locate content. Because there are less than 12 courses in the catalog, courses do not need to be divided into separate categories, as brief course descriptions specify target audience as leadership or staff. All course titles link to detailed course descriptions, and users can access the Training Calendar to register.
- ▶ The Online Certificate pages currently link to the existing website, and need to be redesigned following UX best practices to improve usability.

Tech Notes

1. Secondary Page Banner Image: 500 x 333 px
2. Add Block: Starting Point – Local Events (Training Calendar)

Particular attention was paid to ensure consistency and accessibility to the Training Calendar on all course descriptions web pages.

Recommendations

- ▶ Several ILT course descriptions from the existing L&OD website include links to PowerPoint files as “flyers.” To ensure UX best practices and improve accessibility for users, convert all PowerPoint decks to a PDF file to link from websites.
- ▶ At this time, content from all PowerPoint decks need to be reviewed and edited to ensure information is current and correct, then converted into pdf. Links to all PowerPoint files or “flyers” were not included in this prototype.
